Competitive Medical Schools Send Their Graduates to Urban Areas

The higher the average MCAT score of the school, the more likely its graduates are to practice in a city

Source: American Medical Association Master File